

Coronavirus Assembly

I had planned a different assembly

The good news is that I am confident that, no matter how large the challenges we face, we will - both individually and collectively - be able to use knowledge, resources and people to fix things. We will not achieve a happy outcome immediately - we face complex problems that will require complex and sophisticated solutions.